

Driving Miss Daisy is a Pulitzer Prize-winning play by Alfred Uhry that begins in Atlanta in the 1940s and affectionately covers the 25-year relationship between a strong-willed Southern Jewish widow Daisy Werthan and her equally indomitable African-American chauffeur, Hoke Colburn, and how they gradually form a close friendship that transcends their differences, racial prejudices and social conventions.

Directed by Karen Ferrell-White, the cast includes Jay Michael Isbell as Hoke and Mary Anne Brannon as Miss Daisy, shown in poster, and Keith Larson as Miss Daisy's son, Boolie.
